Today's Game

Big Orange and Crimson Tide Renew Classic Rivalry Today

By David Grim
Tennessee Associate SID

Tennessee and Alabama renew their classic rivalry at Neyland Stadium this afternoon in a crucial Southeastern Conference matchup for both teams.

The Vols (5-1) and Crimson Tide (6-0) enter this afternoon's play leading their respective divisions in the SEC. Tennessee is smarting after a 25-24 loss to Arkansas last week in Knoxville, while Alabama comes to town on the heels of a 37-0 win over Tulane in New Orleans.

"Alabama is one of the best football teams in the country, if not the best," said Vol coach Johnny Majors. "We'll face a terrific challenge this Saturday."

Derrick Lassic ran for 188 yards and one touchdown and Michael Procter kicked three field goals to lead the Tide over Tulane last week.

THE SERIES

Alabama leads the series 40-27-7 against Tennessee that began in 1901. The Crimson Tide has won the last six games over the Vols dating back to 1986. The Vol-Tide series has been one of streaks, with UT winning four in a row prior to Alabama's current streak. But when speaking of streaks, the Tide's 11 straight from 1971-82 ranks as the series' longest. However, prior to the Crimson Tide's 11-game streak, the Vols won four straight (1967-70).

LAST MEETING

Tennessee and Alabama waged a fierce defensive struggle for three periods before the two teams exploded for 34 fourth quarter points in the Tide's 24-19 victory. Trailing 6-3 entering the final stanza, Alabama scored 21 unanswered points to open a 24-6 lead. But Tennessee, led by Andy Kelly, came roaring back to score two late touchdowns and was driving for another when time ran out.

BECKSVOORT PERFECT ON SEASON

Sophomore John Becksvoort enters today's game a perfect 8-of-8 on field goal attempts and has hit all 23 extra point tries this season. The Chattanooga native has connected on career-long field goals the past two weeks, hitting a 46-yarder at LSU and bettering that effort last week with a 53-yarder against Arkansas. In two seasons Becksvoort has not missed an extra point connecting on 51 straight.

VOLS SCORE IN RED ZONE

The Tennessee offense has scored each time it has driven inside the opponent's 20-yard line this season. The Vols have penetrated the opposition's 20-yard stripe 23 times this season and have come away with either a touchdown or a field goal on each occasion. Last week, the Vols scored touchdowns on their three journeys inside the 20.

KELLY MOVES TO SECOND ON SACK LIST

Todd Kelly's two sacks last Saturday moved the senior defensive end into second place on Tennessee's all-time quarterback sack list with 20 1/2. Kelly who has nine sacks this season, passed Brad White and Mark Hovanic (19) for second. Former Tennessee All-America

Reggie White is the school's all-time sack leader with 32 and holds the single-season record with 15 in 1983.

SHULER RUSHING TOWARD RECORD

Heath Shuler's eight rushing touchdowns this season is threatening the Tennessee season record of 10 by Jimmy Streater in 1978. Shuler had two scores on the ground last Saturday against Arkansas and is currently second in the SEC in rushing touchdowns, trailing Georgia's Garrison Hearst who has 13 rushing scores.

IT WAS 10 YEARS AGO THAT HEAD COACH JOHNNY MAJORS WAS CARRIED OFF THE FIELD FOLLOWING THE VOLS' 35-28 VICTORY OVER THE CRIMSON TIDE, ENDING ALABAMA'S 11-GAME WINNING STREAK OVER THE BIG ORANGE.

Dr. Joe Johnson President

Dr. Joe Johnson was elected the 19th president of the University of Tennessee June 27, 1991.

Except for the three-year period from 1960 to 1963 when he served in state government, Dr. Johnson has been on the UT staff since 1958. Most recently, he was executive vice president for development, as well as acting president from March to June 1991.

His UT experience includes teaching in the political science department from 1958 to 1960 and serving as executive assistant to President Andrew Holt from 1963 to 1969. He was named vice president for development in 1969 and, for three years beginning in 1970, served as chancellor of UT-Memphis. He returned to Knoxville in 1973 and assumed the executive vice president and development vice president positions. From 1975 to 1976, he also was vice president for business and finance.

While with Tennessee state government, he was deputy commissioner of the Department of Finance and Administration and executive assistant to Governor Buford Ellington.

A native of Vernon, Ala., Dr. Johnson earned a B.S. at Birmingham Southern College, an M.A. in public administration from UT in 1958 and an Ed.D. from the Knoxville campus in 1968.

He is a member of the board of directors of Blue Cross-Shield of Tennessee, the East Tennessee Foundation, the Tennessee Research and Development Center and Home Federal Bank. He holds membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi honorary societies. Dr. Johnson's wife, Pat, is a UT alumna, holding B.S. and M.S. degrees in child development. The Johnsons have two children, Kelly and Kent.

A MEMBER OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE STAFF FOR MORE THAN 30 YEARS, DR. JOSEPH JOHNSON WAS NAMED UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT ON JUNE 27, 1991.

Dr. William T. Snyder Chancellor

Dr. William T. Snyder is Chancellor of the University of Tennessee's Knoxville campus.

Dr. Snyder, who has a bachelor's of science degree in mechanical engineering from UT and M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Northwestern, joined the UT Space Institute faculty in 1964 as associate professor of aerospace engineering. He earned the rank of professor at UTSI and came to UT-Knoxville as professor and head of the Department of Engineering in 1983 and is on leave from that position while he serves as interim chancellor and vice chancellor. Prior to joining UT, he was on the faculties of the State University of New York at Stony Brook and North Carolina State University.

He is the co-author of a textbook on energy management and his articles appear in many professional journals. He has done research, development and consulting work in energy conservation and management, power plant cooling systems and in medical research.

Dr. Snyder is a charter member of the Association of Energy Engineers and is a member of several professional and honor societies. In 1989 he won the UT National Alumni Association Public Service. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and is the house organist at the Tennessee Theater in Knoxville.

Scouting Report

Alabama Rollin' Right Through 100th Season of Football

One century ago Alabama's fledgling football squad donned its cumbersome wool sweaters and took to the field against mighty Birmingham High School. This day marked football's genesis at the University of Alabama. At the same time, the 56-0 thrashing would become Alabama's first in a long line of victories.

One hundred years later, the 1992 version of the Crimson Tide has decided to salute that 1892 team. To honor the first 'Bama bunch, this year's team has followed as closely as possible in the footsteps of their forefathers. In other words, this Tide team is also drilling its opposition.

Thus far, the combined scores of the Tide's first six games is a gaudy 178-36. It is not surprising then that the Crimson Tide stands as the SEC's top gun in the West with a 3-0 conference mark and is 6-0 overall.

So the century celebration has been festive indeed for the 'Bama players and the Tide faithful alike. While the team continues to beat up on college football's lilliputians (Vanderbilt, Southern Miss, Arkansas, Louisiana Tech, South Carolina and Tulane thus far), the 'Bama backers have been able to savor most every moment because much of the damage has been done at home. The Tide has traveled outside of the Heart of Dixie only twice, against Arkansas and Tulane.

And with the fireball start, 'Bama fans are entertaining caviar dreams of a possible 11th undefeated season for the Tide. Quite an anniversary present it would be and not all that unlikely.

The only thing more 'Bama fans could ask for from this celebratory squad is to have coach Paul "Bear" Bryant calling the plays. The Tide does have the next best thing in head coach Gene Stallings. Stallings has plenty of Bear blood in him, which is awfully important in Tuscaloosa. Stallings played under the Bear at Texas A&M and moved with Bryant to Alabama, where he served as an assistant coach (1958-64).

In his third season, Stallings has Alabama in the midst of a 16-game winning streak which extends over the past two seasons, and a win against the Vols today would move Stallings' college head coaching record past the .500 barrier.

While Stallings has a majority of his starters returning (16 to be exact) from a year ago, youth still dominates this 'Bama lineup. Leading the young rascals is sophomore quarterback Jay Barker. Barker is undefeated as a starter and gives the Tide a much-needed boost in the passing game.

At the end of most of Barker's rainbows has been sophomore split end Curtis Brown and senior flanker Prince Wimbley. But the man most teams fear is "The Deuce," as in No. 2 David Palmer. Palmer, who also excels as a kick returner, is back after serving a three-game suspension, and he brings Desmond Howard-like speed and quickness to the 'Bama receiving corp.

In the backfield, the Tide has rolled along nicely without Siran Stacy who has graduated. In fact, the offensive backfield may be one of 'Bama's strengths. As a unit, Alabama has picked up better than 230 yards a game on the ground. Senior Derrick Lassic leads the brigade of backs, rushing for 504 yards and four scores. Junior Chris Anderson backs up Lassic, while Martin Houston occupies the fullback spot.

Much of the ground troops' success can be attributed to the experience of the men on the offensive front. The Crimson Tide returns all six (including tight end Steve Busky) starters on the line and lost only one backup from last season's 11-1 team. The key brick in the front wall is sophomore Jon Stevenson (6-3, 280). Stevenson was a Knoxville News SEC All-Freshman Team selection last season. George Wilson, at 6-2 and 269-pounds, is the crew's lone senior.

Realistically, the Tide could survive quite nicely with merely a mediocre offense. Their defense is that good. The Tide defense had allowed only nine first downs and 154 yards of total offense per game. Not surprisingly, it ranks at the top or near the top in every NCAA statistical category.

The first line of defense is led by All-SEC selection John Copeland (6-4, 271) at the left defensive end slot. Copeland, who is a junior college transfer, is among the team leaders in tackles, sacks and quarterback pressures.

Lining up at nose in 'Bama's 3-4 alignment is James Gregory (6-4, 290). Gregory has admirably filled the enormous shoes of All-America noseman Robert Stewart. Lining up outside of Gregory is senior defensive end Eric Curry (6-7, 265). Curry, a finalist for the '92 Rotary Lombardi Award, has been hampered somewhat by a pin that was put in his right hand nearly a month ago.

The linebacking crew can be given much of the credit for the Tide's stingy defense against the run. The Tide has allowed only 48 yards per game on the ground. Outside 'backer Antonio London is the strong man of the unit. A senior, London is the club's leading tackler, while fellow outside man Lemanski Hall is second.

On the inside, the Tide have youth and experience in sophomore Mario Morris and senior Derrick Oden. Morris beat out incumbent Michael Rogers for the starting position, while Oden has been a member of the first unit for the past two seasons.

On the corners, the Tide filled a hole by moving senior George Teague, the club's leading pickoff artist last season, from the free safety spot. Paired with Teague is senior Antonio Langham. Langham leads the club with three picks.

The safety spots are a bit raw. Sophomore Sam Shade has latched on to Teague's free safety spot, while junior Chris Donnelly is plugged into strong safety.

If the Tide has a weakness it may lie in the kicking game. Place-kicker Michael Proctor has hit on 12-18 attempts. Bryne Diehl has taken over the punting chores, and is averaging just better than 37 yards a boot.

While the kicking game may be average, the return unit is anything but. With Palmer back in the fold, the Tide possess one of the most dangerous return men in the game. In his first game back against Louisiana Tech, Palmer raced 63 yards with his fourth career punt return for a touchdown. Juniors Chris Anderson and Kevin Lee also see time catching the pigskin.

Head Coach Johnny Majors

In 1991, the University of Tennessee continued to reach an achievement level that is making the Johnny Majors coaching era a golden age in Vol football history.

A visit to the Fiesta Bowl was UT's 10th postseason trip in the last 11 years and marked the third straight time the Vols played in a New Year's Day classic. Since 1989, Tennessee has compiled a 29-6-2 record.

A season in which the Vols were consistently ranked in the polls is destined to be remembered for a singular event: a remarkable 35-34 victory over Notre Dame in which Tennessee rallied from a 31-7 deficit.

Moreover, the win at Notre Dame made Majors the only coach ever to depart South Bend with victories over the Irish at two different schools. His 1976 Pittsburgh team returned home with a 31-10 triumph under its belt, the first step toward a national championship Panthers.

UT and Majors have been described as a "perfect fit," a school with a rich tradition of quality football and a coach with his roots planted firmly in the mountains and valleys of the Volunteer State.

After 15 seasons the UT-Majors association is forged tighter than ever. Consistent improvement in Tennessee's record picked up steam in 1985 when the Vols nailed down the SEC title on the final day of the season.

THE 1956 HEISMAN TROPHY BENEPLACIT, MAJORS IS A MEMBER OF THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL FOUNDATION'S HALL OF FAME.

Tennessee also earned the conference crown in 1989 and 1990, meaning the school has notched three SEC championships over the last seven years. High rankings in coaches and writers polls as well as an impressive array of All-America selections have also characterized the Vol program under Majors' leadership.

Majors' professional stature was reflected when he served in 1990 as president of the American Football Coaches Association. His was a hands-on presidency as season for the

COACH MAJORS HAS PILOTTED THE VOLUNTEERS TO THREE SEC CHAMPIONSHIPS IN THE PAST SEVEN SEASONS.

he plunged headlong into AFCA projects without diminishing the time he spent orchestrating Tennessee's SEC title-winning performance that year.

The 1990 SEC title, coinciding with the celebration of the University's 100th football anniversary, gave the school back-to-back championships for the first time since UT won three in a row from 1938 through 1940.

The 1989 and 1990 Tennessee teams could claim still another distinction: They were the only squads in the school's history to capture consecutive

SEC championships and also win their holiday bowl games. Less than four years ago, a significant honor was accorded Majors, relating to his playing days at Tennessee back in the mid-'50s. Recognizing his triple-threat single-wing tailback play for the Vols, the National Football Foundation inducted Johnny into its Hall of Fame.

In three different head coaching jobs — at Iowa State, Pittsburgh and finally at his alma mater, Tennessee — Majors has achieved the unusual distinction of winning coach-of-the-year honors at conference or national levels. In only four years at Pitt, he was twice named the top coach in the nation.

Majors' head coaching record is 168-102-10 for a percentage of .618 over 24 years. At UT, it's 111-59-8 in 15 years for a mark of .646.

Except for the lean 1988 season, Tennessee has been a regular postseason visitor over the last decade, spending the holidays at the Garden State, Peach (twice), Florida Citrus, Sun, Sugar (twice), Liberty and Cotton bowls and then adding the Fiesta in 1991.

In 24 years as a head coach, Majors has carved out his niche as one of the game's most honored teachers. National coach-of-the-year honors were bestowed on Majors in 1973, when the Football Writers Association so anointed him, and in 1976 when the authors were joined by the American Football Coaches Association in naming him as the season's outstanding coach.

VOL HEAD COACH JOHNNY MAJORS AND HIS WIFE MARY LYNN MAJORS WITH SON JOHN, DAUGHTER MARY AND GRANDSON BRANDON.

When the Tennessee head coaching position opened after the 1976 season, UT officials wasted no time in putting through a summons to the most obvious choice to assume command of the Orange forces, John Terrill Majors.

Johnny Majors is as much a part of Volunteer folklore as Neyland, McEver, Cafego, and Lauricella. The dynamic deeds of the 1956 Vols, an undefeated aggregation that ranked second in the nation, were tied to the heady little field general from Huntland.

More than three decades in the coaching profession have taken Majors from an assistant freshman post at Tennessee to the reins of national champion Pittsburgh and finally back to his alma mater as head coach. Stopovers at Mississippi State, Arkansas and Iowa State sharpened the young coach's football savvy as he made his way through the gridiron vineyards.

Majors' selection as UT's 19th head football coach brought him back to the campus where his myriad talents earned him All-America recognition and brings to the state where the name Majors back to mind a legendary sports family.

The return to UT brought Majors back to his roots, only a few miles from the beautiful midstate area where Johnny grew up and where his father, the late Shirley Majors, coached football at the University of the South.

Another happy ingredient in Majors' life derived from his association at UT. That is where he met pretty Chattanoogaan Mary Lynn Barnwell, later to become Mrs. Johnny Majors. The coach and Mrs. Majors have two children, John and Mary, and they take particular delight in the antics of their grandson, Brandon.

Majors' numerous charity and benefit causes include the Cancer Crusade, the March of Dimes, the Heart Association, Junior Achievement and the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Majors, 1956 runnerup for the Heisman Trophy, was elected to a place on Tennessee's all-time team in balloting held in conjunction with the school's 100th anniversary celebration in 1990.

Tennessee Coaching Staff

FULMER

Asst. Head Coach/
Off. Coordinator

Three years as offensive coordinator and three straight season records for grinding out yardage, is a landmark achievement on the dossier of Phillip Fulmer.

Tennessee, with Fulmer directing Head Coach Johnny Majors' offense, averaged a record 408.5 yards per game in 1989, eclipsed that mark with a 411.1 average in 1990 and then set still another standard, 467.1 yards, during the exciting 1991 campaign.

In addition to serving as the Vols' offensive coordinator the last three seasons, the 41-year-old Fulmer has been UT's line coach since 1980, having produced an impressive list of all-stars and also holds the rank of assistant head coach under Majors.

Two decades ago, Fulmer was a competent blocker on three UT teams that ended their season gracing holiday bowl extravaganzas.

MARK BRADLEY

Tight Ends

Mark Bradley, a member of the coaching profession dating back to the time he graduated from college, joined the Tennessee football staff on a full-time basis in the summer of 1992.

He faces a complex set of responsibilities under Head Coach Johnny Majors, who has combined two jobs into a single position he feels the veteran Bradley can handle capably. His duties as a member of Phil Fulmer's offensive staff will be as coach of tight ends.

In addition, Bradley has been placed in charge of much of the kicking game, working with punters, placekickers, snappers and holders. "Mark Bradley's experience as a coach has been broad enough that he should be able to handle these responsibilities," Majors said.

LARRY MARMIE

Defensive Coordinator

Larry Marmie, head coach at Arizona State the past four years, is the Vols' defensive coordinator. He served UT previously, guiding the '83 Vols to the top of the Southeastern Conference's defensive charts.

Marmie is remembered fondly around the state of Tennessee as the man who in his first season coordinated a defensive unit that zoomed to the top statistically in the Southeastern Conference. In 1983, the Vols under Marmie ranked first in the SEC in total defense, defense against scoring and defense against running.

Marmie left for Arizona State in 1985 to become defensive coordinator for longtime friend John Cooper. When Cooper left the Sun Devils to accept the head coaching job at Ohio State, Marmie moved up to the head job at Arizona State.

JOHN CHAVIS

Linebackers

John Chavis, a three-year veteran on Johnny Majors' Tennessee staff, could find the 1992 season the most challenging he has faced since coming to his alma mater in 1989.

Complicating the situation for the conscientious, hard-working assistant is the loss of the three starters at linebacker from the 1991 squad. The Vols must adjust to the departure of standouts Earnest Fields, Darryl Hardy and Shon Walker.

In three seasons with the Vols, Chavis has divided his responsibilities between the defensive line and the linebacker corps. In 1989 John spent his time with the defensive line. Then in 1990, to help accommodate additions to the defensive staff, he made the switch to linebacker coach.

DAVID CUTCLIFFE

QBs/Passing Game
Coordinator

David Cutcliffe, having overseen the development of Tennessee's most productive record-smasher the past two seasons, now directs his quarterback coaching skills to a less-experienced crew.

Andy Kelly has departed, leaving behind him a batch of rewritten Vol records, as far as quarterback proficiency is concerned. Cutcliffe will be facing the task of speeding the learning process of a new corps of signed-callers.

In 10 seasons as a member of Johnny Majors' Vol staff, Cutcliffe has carried out responsibilities at a variety of positions, including tight end and running back as well as quarterback. Last spring, Majors designated him coordinator of the passing game under offensive coordinator Phillip Fulmer.

CHARLIE
COE

Running
Backs

Charlie Coe, who grew up in Missouri and coached in the Big Eight before moving to Tennessee, will find his cupboard better stocked in his second season as Vols' running back coach.

His first year overseeing the tailback and fullback positions was a stern test of Coe's coaching ability. Taking over direction of the running backs in 1991 after working a year with receivers, Charlie encountered a situation that was handicapped by inexperience personnel.

By season's end, however, the development of James Stewart and other young backs was recognized as a key to the Vols' success in landing a Fiesta Bowl berth.

Coe played defensive back and returned punts for Kansas State and was an All-Big Eight second baseman for the Wildcats.

Vol Profile

Sophomore in the Spotlight

By Tom Mattingly
Tennessee Sports Information

Tennessee quarterback Heath Shuler says it's easy to tell when the hoopla of the recruiting season ends and it's time to produce on the field. It happens, he says, "after you put your name on the dotted line," that is, when you ink scholarship papers.

That pragmatic attitude is indicative of Shuler's approach to the game. He's an interesting young man, one who seems as comfortable on the field or in an interview situation as he might be discussing the previous week's games with his friends on the front steps of the Victory Baptist Church in his hometown of Bryson City, N.C.

After the game at LSU, for example, he approached a multitude of press interviews with the same gusto he showed talking with his dad and other friends from Bryson City when all the press questions were completed. He also took time to sign autographs ("Heath Shuler, #21") as he made his way to the team bus and the trip home.

It's been 20 years since a quarterback has taken over Big Orange Country quite the way Shuler has. You'd have to go back to 1972, to the sophomore year of Condredge Holloway, to find another quarterback Vol fans couldn't wait to see under center.

And Vol fans haven't been disappointed through the first five games. Shuler has scored six touchdowns and averaged 3.5 yards per carry. He has completed 56.3 percent of his passes with five TD strikes. He's fun to watch as he sprints out on the option. He's a sight with the ball under his arm in a scattered field.

He is the team's total offense leader, averaging 145.2 yards per game. He had a 44-yard run on the final play of the third quarter against Georgia and scored two TDs in the Vols' 34-31 come-from-behind victory. He even punted in the LSU game, dropping a kick inside the LSU 1-yard line.

He led "The Drive" in the final moments of that game at Athens, an 80-yarder which caught the attention of ABC analyst Dick Vermeil.

"That last drive he led at Georgia was very impressive," Vermeil said the week after the Georgia game. "For Shuler to respond to that situation in that way tells me something about his will to win.

"He just took charge. Somebody has coached him awfully well. I could tell that by the way he throws on roll-outs. His technique is excellent."

Shuler, the object of a red-hot recruiting battle two years ago, cast his lot with the Vols and prepared to make the short trip from Bryson City over the Smoky Mountains to Knoxville on a regular basis.

"There are three different ways to get home across the mountain. It's really not that far," he said, showing that he considered the exigencies of travel in his recruiting decision.

The recruiting season was not an easy time, but there were significant lessons to be learned.

"Recruiting had its ups and downs. The hardest part was telling people no. An average day was 14-15 calls. There 84 schools that recruited me early, all the big names. That made me grow up more by having to tell people no and not be pushed into something."

Shuler played sparingly as a freshman, seeing action in five contests, but saving his best for last. Against Vanderbilt, he completed two passes for 23 yards and rifled a TD pass to Craig Faulkner. It was Shuler's first TD pass as a Vol and Faulkner's first TD catch.

"I was excited about the first completion. It was really great. It was the start of a dream. We'll see where it goes from there.

"I'm going to school to get an education. I had a 3.19 grade point average my first semester. After college, I'd like to play in the NFL. If that doesn't work out, I'd like to go into business, particularly my own, maybe in banking or real estate."

He said he had a great teacher in Andy Kelly, the former Vol signal-caller who holds nearly all Vol passing records.

"I learned so much from Andy. He showed me and taught me so much about the offense. He was a really big help. He had a great ability to bounce back. He was so cool and calm on the sidelines. It takes a big person to bounce back from a mistake like it never happened. I hope I have that same desire."

It's been a long time, more than 20 years, in fact, since the Vols had a quarterback wear No. 21. Shuler had his reasons for choosing those digits.

"I like being different. I've worn No. 21 in all my athletic events since I was a freshman in high school. I didn't want to change now."

Why UT, when he could have had his choice of any of a number of colleges? The answer was not unexpected, coming from a young man who has a strong belief in family and home and all the traditional values you could want.

"My family was the biggest factor. Being close to home was important so that weeded out a lot of schools.

"The next factor was the program. Most all of them offered a major in finance. What stuck out here was UT having such a good business school."

Heath Shuler has his priorities in order and looks forward to the challenges of the 1992 season and beyond.

Look out Vol fans, he has his sights set on making fall afternoons happy ones in Knoxville and across the State of Tennessee. He's done so already and appears ready to keep it going.

FORMER VOL

Albert Dorsey 1965-67

Albert Dorsey was a Tennessee defensive back from 1965-67, from Tampa, Fla. He earned All-SEC and All-America honors in the SEC Championship season of 1967.

He is best known to Vol fans for his three fourth-quarter interceptions off Ken Stabler in the 1967 Alabama game, won by the Vols 24-13.

It was his 21st birthday on that Oct. 21 in Birmingham and he celebrated in style, returning the final oskie 31 yards for the game-clinching touchdown.

"It's the most exciting thing that's happened to me as a player," he said, recalling his third interception that day. "It was a simple down-and-out pass route. I cut in front of the receiver, picked the ball out of the air and ran into the end zone. To me, that was the ultimate, scoring the knockout against Alabama."

He now lives in Brentwood and works for Allied Bearing in Nashville.

VOL DEFENSIVE BACK ALBERT DORSEY WAS AN ALL-SEC AND ALL-AMERICA CHOICE FOLLOWING THE 1967 SEASON.

HAMILTON
Defensive
Line

Ray Hamilton, a University of Oklahoma graduate who was with the New England Patriots as a player or coach over a span of 17 years, is the new defensive line coach for the Tennessee Vols.

Born in Omaha, Neb., Ray was only four when his family moved to Oklahoma City, where he attended Douglass High School and was recruited by his adopted state university's football team, the Oklahoma Sooners. At first a nose guard and then a defensive end, Hamilton was twice All-Big Eight and selected by the Patriots in the 14th round of the National Football League draft in 1973.

He broke in with New England as an end, switched to nose guard in 1974 and remained at that position until he retired as a player after the 1981 season.

TIM KEANE
Defensive
Backs

Tim Keane, a spirited competitor with a solid background in the coaching profession, will be working with a largely inexperienced corps of defensive backs in 1992.

In his first two seasons with the Vols, the ebullient New Jersey native oversaw a secondary that contributed substantially to Tennessee's success.

One of the players assigned to him, safety Dale Carter, made first team All-America both seasons. Fleet cornerback Jeremy Lincoln landed a berth last year on the All-Southeastern Conference team as selected by league coaches.

Graduation took a heavy toll, leaving Keane to prepare for a season which the secondary will enter with scant playing time under its collective belt.

RANDY SANDERS
Wide
Receivers

Randy Sanders, in his second year as a full-time coach, will be combing the ranks of Tennessee receivers in search of someone to step up and take over a lead role.

With Carl Pickens' departure after the 1991 season, Sanders will try to develop players who can take up the slack and reinforce the Vol tradition for top-quality wide receivers.

Sanders came to Tennessee in 1984 from nearby Morristown as one of the most heralded quarterbacks produced in the state, having nabbed both All-State and All-Southern honors. He worked hard in the classroom — four times winning Southeastern Conference Academic All-Star honors — and earned his degree in 1987, at a time when he still had a year of eligibility.

Recruiting
Coordinator

Steve Pederson, who manages to stay calm in an activity that is anything but laid-back, heads up the Tennessee Vols' football recruiting program.

Pederson had served three years as recruiting coordinator at Ohio State before assuming a similar assignment in 1991 on Johnny Majors' UT staff.

"Steve has a broad and extensive background that brings outstanding expertise to one of the most important positions in a football organization," Majors said at the time of Pederson's appointment.

A native of North Platte, Neb., Pederson graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1980 with a degree in business administration. He worked for a year in the Cornhuskers' sports information office before going to work for a private business.

VOLS PAY TRIBUTE TO TIM KERIN

Tim Kerin, the Vols' head trainer for 15 years, died suddenly prior to the start of the 1992 campaign. This year's Tennessee Volunteers will wear shamrocks imprinted with "TIM" on their helmets in honor of Kerin, who was proud of his Irish heritage.

Kerin, one of the most respected members of his field, was also very active in the community's anti-drug efforts, serving two years as President of the Metropolitan Drug Commission. Kerin came to UT with Johnny Majors in 1977.

"Tim Kerin was like a family member to me," said Majors. "He was a wonderful human being in every respect — honest, loyal, intelligent and concerned for everyone he knew. He touched so many people in so many ways."

JAMES STEWART LED THE VOLTS IN RUSHING LAST SEASON AS A FRESHMAN, GAINING 929 YARDS ON 190 CARRIES.

Athletic Facilities

The University of Tennessee's recent mammoth building program has vaulted the Vols' athletic facilities to a position of having no equal.

In the last seven years, under the leadership of Athletic Director Doug Dickey and the generous contributions of the Vol faithful, construction on campus has yielded such projects as the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, renovation of athletic dormitory Gibbs Hall, Thompson-Boling Assembly Center and Arena, lighting system at Hudson Field, home of the baseball Vols, and a new Neyland Stadium press box, complete with luxurious executive suites.

Last spring, construction began on Lindsey Nelson Stadium, the Vols' new 2,300-seat baseball stadium on the same site where Hudson Field stood. The facility should be ready for the 1993 season.

The Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, which opened in July of 1989, gives the Vols a total facility second to none. The $11 million structure, adjacent to Stokely Athletic Center and Gibbs Hall, houses an indoor 70-yard All-Pro Turf practice field under a 65-foot ceiling. The 12,000 square ft., weight room on the main level is one of the top three in the nation in terms of size and is considered one of the best equipped and most functional. The state-of-the-art training room includes separate taping and examination areas, plus the latest equipment for treating athletic injuries. In addition, the facility also houses coaches offices and conference rooms, a media room, player dressing room, equipment room, a guest/recruiting lounge and the Tennessee Football Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame is an attraction no Vol fan should leave campus without seeing. Opened in February 1990, the Hall of Fame stands as a tribute to the many people who have helped shape Tennessee football. The Hall of Fame, featured at the entrance of the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, chronicles the storied history of the Volunteers through video touch screen terminals, photographs and various kinds of memorabilia that brings Tennessee football to life. The facility is open weekdays and on football Saturdays.

Soon after classes ended in the spring of 1987, the massive renovation of Gibbs Hall began. The result of the $6 million project was one of the nation's most modern living facilities of its kind. The building features residence rooms with outside balcony entrances, a modern dining hall and recreation area.

In just five years, Thompson-Boling Arena, home of the basketball Vols, is widely recognized as one of the nation's premier basketball showplaces. The 24,535 seating capacity ranks the facility as the nation's second-largest on-campus basketball arena. The last three years have seen the mammoth facility play host to record basketball crowds for the Vols, Lady Vols and NBA exhibition games. In addition, the arena has entertained the 1989 SEC Tournament, 1990 NCAA Southeast Regionals and the 1990 Women's Final Four.

Tennessee opened its expansive four-story press box in time for the 1987 season. The $10 million structure contains 40 executive suites, three administrative suites, seven broadcast booths and two 30-foot photo decks. The working press area on level five is a 3200-square-foot working area with seating for 108. Each of the skyboxes contain eight fixed and eight moveable seats, a kitchenette, with refrigerator, sink and storage, and a multi-channel television monitor for the closed-circuit broadcast of the UT game as well as other viewing. The facility stretches from goal line to goal line and is 61 feet high from top to bottom.

The new facilities join Tom Black Track, host annually to major track events, the UT Tennis Stadium, the UT Golf Range, one of nation's finest practice facilities and the Student Aquatic Center, housing the Vols' nationally prominent swim program.

Future athletic building projects include an indoor tennis facility.

NEW HORIZONS FOR THE SEC

League Is First To Play Championship Game

The 1992 campaign marks a new era in Southeastern Conference football history, as the regular-season will culminate in the first-ever Division I-A conference championship game. The contest will feature the Eastern and Western Division champions vying for the SEC title and the league's automatic bid to the USF&G Sugar Bowl in New Orleans.

"The excitement surrounding the inaugural game will be unsurpassed in SEC history," Commissioner Roy Kramer said. "It is certainly fitting that our 60th season in the conference be celebrated with a game of this magnitude." The first SEC Football Championship game will be played December 5, 1992, at 83,091-seat Legion Field in Birmingham, Ala.

The game, which will be televised nationally by ABC Sports at 2:30 p.m. (Central), will also mark the debut of a tie-breaking system in Division I-A football. An extra period shall consist of two series with both teams putting the ball in play at their opponent's 25-yard line. Each team retains the ball until it scores or fails to make a first-down. The team scoring the greater number of points during regulation and the extra period(s) shall be declared the winner.

The Championship Game is a result of conference expansion, which saw Arkansas and South Carolina become the first members added in the SEC's 60-year history. Under NCAA regulations, a conference with 12 members may play an additional 12th football game to determine its champion provided the regular-season is played in divisions.

The SEC Eastern Division includes: Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Tennessee and Vanderbilt. The Western Division is comprised of Alabama, Arkansas, Auburn, LSU, Mississippi and Mississippi State.

The participants of the game will be determined during the eight-game regular-season conference schedule — the team with the best overall SEC winning percentage in each division will qualify.

The new eight-game conference schedule is based on a 5-2-1 format. It allows each school to play all five of its division opponents along with two permanent and one rotating non-division opponent each year. It ensures an institution will play every conference member at least twice during an eight-year period.

In the event of a tie for the divisional championship, the following tie-breaker system will be used: (1) Head-to-head competition between the tied teams; (2) Records of the tied teams within the division; (3) Head-to-head competition against the team within the division with the best overall conference record and proceeding through the division; (4) Overall record against non-divisional teams; (5) Combined record against all common non-division teams; (6) Record against common non-division team with the best overall conference record and proceeding through other common non-divisional teams based on their order of finish within their division; (7) Vote of the athletic directors whose institution is not involved in the tie.

Economic impact for the city of Birmingham is projected at between $15 million and $20 million. With the current five-year contract, the economic impact for the city is anticipated to be between $75 and $100 million.

For almost 200 years, the University of Tennessee has taught students, done research to help solve problems of Tennessee and the nation, and has served business and government.

In 1994, the University will celebrate its 200th birthday. As it approaches its third century, UT stands as the state's oldest, largest and most comprehensive university. But it's not resting on its reputation. Exciting new developments keep UT in the forefront of U.S. higher education.

The College of Education, for example, is helping find new and better ways to train teachers. Philip Morris Companies Inc. gave $500,000 to restructure the college and provide a national model for training teachers and school administrators. The three-year project has three phases: assessing the status of education colleges and defining what new colleges should be like; consensus building, planning, and development of the blueprint; and implementation.

The Academy for Teachers of Science and Mathematics, cosponsored by UT, Martin Marietta, the U.S. Department of Energy, and the Tennessee State Department of Education, has received national exposure for its programs. Martin Marietta touted the academy in two advertisements carried in Newsweek, Forbes, Time, and Business Week.

The accounting department has received national recognition, too. Public Accounting Report, an Atlanta-based publication, asked 113 professors to choose the top 20 U.S. undergraduate and graduate accounting programs. UT's undergraduate program ranked ninth and its graduate program twelfth.

The M.B.A. program of the College of Business Administration ranked in the nation's top 12 percent in a study by U.S. News and World Report. The rankings were based on graduation rate, student selectivity, success of graduates in the job market, and opinion of the nation's business leaders.

Construction is under way on the Hill on one of the "smartest" buildings in Tennessee. Ground was broken in February for the science-engineering building, which will contain sensors in its walls to monitor structural pressures and movement caused by forces like wind, construction and earthquakes.

Measuring stress loads during construction will be among the first research projects associated with the seven-story, $28 million building.

There will be labs for chemistry, microbiology, lasers, plasma, fusion energy, robotics, materials processing, environmental engineering, biotechnology, and other studies. The building should be finished in 1995.

More than 26,000 students and 1,400 faculty and staff populate the Knoxville campus. Its 417 acres boast both the modern and traditional, from the stately Ayres Hall atop the Hill to the technological wonders of the Hodges Library. UT is a vital part of Knoxville, sharing its facilities and resources with the city that has nurtured it since 1794.

Because of its size and reputation, UT is able to offer countless opportunities. Its 10 colleges offer more than 100 undergraduate majors and 140 graduate programs, and there are numerous special services.

For example, students who want to live and study in a German, French, or Spanish-speaking community can be part of the Residential Language Experience, or more simply, the language houses. German, French, and Spanish "houses" in campus residence halls provide students an opportunity to use foreign language outside the classroom and learn more about foreign cultures.

As computers become nearly essential to classroom work, UT has made them more and more accessible. Students can get free, individual accounts on the UT Computing Center mainframe computer and can access those computers at a variety of campus locations.

Students can change their class schedules by telephone. A new registration system provides tentative class schedules about two weeks after students sign up.

And when they're not in class, students can participate in any of the 300 campus clubs — for student writers, environmentalists, equestrians, karate buffs and ham radio operators, to name a few. UT also has a student theater company, a marching band, an opera theater, a symphony orchestra, a jazz ensemble, several choruses, and an art league.

There also is a student newspaper, The Daily Beacon; the Phoenix literary magazine; the Volunteer yearbook; and the all-news radio station, WUTK, at which students can work and learn.

The Center for International Education offers a place for foreign students to meet and socialize and sponsors public events to increase awareness of other cultures. The Black Cultural Center has meeting and study rooms, a library, a video tape room, and a galley. It also sponsors speakers and workshops for black students.

In addition to the advantages of the large campus, students enjoy personalized attention. About 75 percent of classes have fewer than 30 students, and most lecture classes meet in small discussion groups at least once a week. Each student has an advisor with whom he or she meets regularly to plan courses and discuss career options.

UT has a special program for students who need help getting adjusted to college. First Year Studies helps with study skills, time management and getting acquainted with the campus.

There are special programs for honors students, too. The Whittle Scholars program, which offers five-year awards that include a year of work or study abroad, attracted 1,000 nominations last year. The Whittle scholarships recognize students with both academic prowess and leadership qualities. The Tennessee Scholars and the College Scholars in liberal arts are selected for their academic accomplishments.

were enrolled last year, placing UT in the top 10 percent nationally among institutions participating in the National Merit Scholarship program. The campus graduation rate is more than 10 percent above the national average.

Good faculty play a leading role in attracting superior students to UT. Some of the brightest scholars and researchers in the nation hold UT Chairs of Excellence in fields such as English, business administration, and agriculture. UT also shares Distinguished Scientists with Oak Ridge National Laboratory, adding to the faculty even more of the world's finest mindpower.

Education doesn't stop at the campus borders. The state is literally the University's classroom. At any time, faculty and staff can be found in all parts of Tennessee putting their knowledge to work in a host of public service activities ranging from literacy education to wellness testing. The University also offers off-campus courses at times and places convenient to working adults. The University's five-year plan re-emphasizes the long-standing goals that have marked UT's 200-year history. Educating students; serving Tennessee business, government, and public schools; and performing research to benefit citizens everywhere were worthwhile goals two centuries ago, and UT works just as hard at them today.

The University of Tennessee is a state-assisted institution for higher education with more than 41,000 students enrolled on primary campuses in Chattanooga, Knoxville, Martin and Memphis.

UT Chattanooga and UT Martin offer a broad range of study choices with emphasis on undergraduate instruction. The UT campus in Knoxville is the most comprehensive in the system, based on the number of study choices in academic fields and learning opportunities beyond the baccalaureate degree.

UT Memphis is the home and primary center for public health science education and research programs in Tennessee. In addition to the four primary campuses, UT also includes the Institute of Agriculture, the Institute for Public Service and the Statewide Office of Continuing Education, all located in Knoxville, and the UT Space Institute in Tullahoma.

The University's policies and programs are set by the UT Board of Trustees, which includes five ex-officio members and 19 members appointed by the governor. Gov. Ned McWherter is chairman of the board.

In addition to Gov. McWherter, the other ex-officio members of the board are Charles E. Smith, state commissioner of education; L.H. Ivy, commissioner of agriculture; Arliss Roaden, executive director, Tennessee Higher Education Commission; and Dr. Joseph E. Johnson, president, The University of Tennessee.

The chancellors are Dr. Fred Obeir, Chattanooga; Dr. William T. Snyder, Knoxville; Dr. Margaret Perry, Martin; and interim vice president for health affairs and interim chancellor Dr. William R. Rice, Memphis.

Trustees are Roger W. Dickson, Chattanooga; Thomas F. Elam, Union City; J. Steven Ennis, Tullahoma; Amon Carter Evans, Columbia; Roy C. Flowers, Nashville; J. Houston Gordon, Covington; Jacqueline Marie Haddad (student

We have almost nothing to show for our innovations in laser surgery.

Curiously, the cutting-edge of medical technology often involves no cutting at all.

That's because laser surgery works on a different principle. Precise beams of light are used in place of a scalpel.

In many instances, laser surgery means less pain, less scarring, less bleeding, and faster recoveries.

In other cases, it means correction of problems that would otherwise go untreated, such as port wine stains.

As you may expect, St. Mary's Medical Center is the only one in East Tennessee with a center dedicated to laser surgery.

Ask your doctor about it. For when important medical advances come to light, we do our best to bring them to you.

And laser light is no exception.

Director of Athletics Doug Dickey

Doug Dickey, who led Tennessee to two Southeastern Conference championships as head football coach three decades ago, now serves the university as director of athletics.

Those are two entirely different jobs, but Dickey, in each capacity, made a lasting contribution to UT's athletic success. With six seasons as football coach and seven years administering the office of athletics director, Dickey has been affiliated with the university for more than a decade.

As coach, he put UT back in the national football forefront with a string of productive seasons that included league championships and bowl appearances. As athletics director, he has overseen a huge facilities construction and renovation program.

With the opening in 1989 of the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, the name given to the football complex, UT had completed building projects that brought its physical plant to the top rank of major colleges and universities.

Among the additions to the campus sports scene in the last six years have been the Thompson-Boling Assembly Center and Arena, renovated Gibbs Hall dormitory and Neyland Stadium press box and executive suites. Next up on the building agenda is a baseball stadium, which is already under construction and should be completed by the time the first pitch is thrown for the 1993 season.

The arena, begun under the administration of previous athletics director Bob Woodruff and completed after Dickey's appointment, has proved a magnet for basketball tournaments and other events attracted by its 24,500-seat capacity.

When Dickey succeeded Woodruff

seven years ago, he put a top priority on bringing UT's facilities to a level that would enable Vol coaches and athletes to compete on an even plane with their Southeastern Conference rivals. The multimillion dollar building program was a must on his agenda.

One of his first steps was the implementation of a well-orchestrated scholarship fund-raising drive designed to increase UT's level of giving from approximately $800,000 to more than $4 million annually. Contributions have increased dramatically under Dickey's astute leadership and have been instrumental in financing the ambitious building program.

A college football coach for 22 years before moving onto the business world in 1980, Dickey became only the fourth athletic director in UT history when he was chosen to the job of overseeing Tennessee's success-oriented sports program.

Keenly aware of the role athletics plays within the framework of the university's educational mission, Dickey has taken particular satisfaction in allocating athletic department funds, as available, to academic scholarships such as the Robert R. Neyland grants and to the university library.

Sixty-year-old Douglas Adair Dickey brought to the athletics director's job the qualities the university was searching for in a replacement for Woodruff. He had long-standing ties with Tennessee, he had been involved with college athletics for more than two decades, he had participated successfully in business and he enjoyed a reputation for total integrity.

Before taking the Tennessee post, Dickey had been for four years general manager of the Florida Tile Co., with headquarters in Lakeland, Fla. He previously had served the firm as its Southeast regional sales manager.

One of Dickey's five children, Daryl, was the starting quarterback and the most valuable player in the Sugar Bowl after Tennessee's 1985 team won the Southeastern Conference championship. But the current athletic director's ties to UT were forged in the 1960s when he took a football program that had happened onto lean times and turned it into a national powerhouse with all the accoutrement of success — SEC championships, high national rankings, a bevy of All-America stars and annual bowl game appearances.

Six years after he came to Tennessee, a youthful head coach taking on the established greats of his fiercely competitive profession, Dickey left Knoxville. He answered a call from his alma mater, the University of Florida, and moved to Gainesville as head coach after the 1969 season. His nine-year record at Florida was 58-43-2, which combined with his six-year mark at Tennessee of 46-15-4, left him with an overall total of 104-58-6. Dickey closed out his coaching career by spending the 1979 season as assistant head coach at the University of Colorado.

It was Woodruff, then only a year into his athletic director's job at Tennessee, who brought Dickey, age 31 at the time, from an assistant's post at Arkansas to the demanding assignment as steward of the Big Orange football program before the 1964 season.

Except for the five years he spent in business, Dickey has been around college campuses almost his entire life. He was born in Vermillion, S.D., where his father, the late Dallas Dickey, was a speech professor at South Dakota State University. His father later was on the faculty at Louisiana State University and at the University of Florida.

Doug is married to the former JoAnne Beville. They have four sons — Donald, Daniel, David and Daryl — and a daughter, Mrs. Jaren Anne Wells.

Previous occupants of the athletic director's position were Paul Parker, Bob Neyland and Woodruff.

Tradition is a wonderful thing, particularly the 101-year plus tradition of Tennessee football. You can't manufacture it and nobody really knows how to define it, but you know it when you see it. And, perhaps more important, you know it when you feel it.

It's a tradition of winning. Tennessee is the 10th winningest team in the country. Not only do the Vols have the winningest overall athletics program in the SEC, they've won more games the past five years than any of their conference rivals and have captured 11 SEC championships, three since 1984.

It's eight first-round draft choices in the past five years, 32 bowl appearances and 10 television appearances in 1991 alone.

Tennessee tradition is a distinctive shade of Orange, unmatched anywhere in college football. It's the "T"s on the side of the helmets. It's the "Vol Walk" before the games from Gibbs Hall to the stadium. It's the Orange and White checkerboard end zones. It's a wave of Orange across 91,000-seat Neyland Stadium.

It's tailgating in the parking lots and hearing John Ward's pre-game show at the base of the Hill near Alumni Gym. It's hearing Bobby Denton say, "Please pay these prices and please pay no more." It's watching the "Pride of the Southland Marching Band" marching down Volunteer Boulevard, turning right on Andy Holt and heading to the stadium.

Tennessee tradition is the band massed at the north end zone, ready to begin the nation's most exciting pre-game show, culminating when the Vols run through the "T." It's "Rocky Top," the "Spirit of the Hill," and the "Hallowed Hill in Tennessee."

Tennessee tradition is a lineage of blue tick coon hounds named "Smoky" that lead the Vols through the "T."

It's the "Volunteer Navy" dotting the Tennessee River at the south end of the stadium covering the waterfront with boats of all sizes and descriptions.

It's defense and the kicking game and coming back from 31-7 down at Notre Dame to win 35-34. It's Orange and White flags on the windows of automobiles and vans on I-40, I-75, or any road leading where the Vols play.

That's the way it's been with University of Tennessee football, now entering its 102nd year of providing Vol fans memories for the ages.

Tennessee football occupies a special place in the hearts and minds of Tennessee fans, regardless of when and where they saw their first Tennessee game.

It's a year-round subject of discussion in barbershops, on church steps, at alumni gatherings or any place Vol fans get together.

But more than anything, tradition is really a sense of deja vu, that fancy term for the feeling you get when you think you've been there before.

It's great players, coaches and plays. It's the inevitable comparisons, the frames of reference fans bring to the games. The thrill of being part of something that unifies the state of Tennessee as nothing else can.

It's like former Vol wideout Tim McGee, now a Cincinnati Bengals player, said: "It's a Super Bowl atmosphere every Saturday at Neyland Stadium. But you already knew that."

Transplant Provides UT Mascot
Second Chance

by Joyce York

Each year means new programs and facilities at the University of Tennessee Medical Center at Knoxville, but the most important accomplishments are those which save and enrich lives.

Among the many individuals affected by the medical center is Jon Elder, a UT student who is the Smokey mascot for the Lady Vols.

THE UT MEDICAL CENTER'S THREE-FOLD MISSION OF PATIENT CARE, EDUCATION AND RESEARCH IS DESIGNED TO INSURE A BETTER QUALITY OF LIFE FOR EVERYONE.

SMOKEY, THE LADY VOLS' MASCOT, CAN BE FOUND ON FOOTBALL SATURDAYS LEADING THE CHEERS FOR THE ORANGE AND WHITE AT NEYLAND STADIUM.

A kidney transplant Elder received at the University Medical Center helped him overcome a battle with a degenerative kidney disease that was diagnosed when he was 8 years old.

At age 14, Elder began dialysis to cleanse his failing kidneys. He received strong support from his family, especially his mother who learned to perform home dialysis so Elder could participate in high school plays and perform as the mascot Smokey (the Bear) for his Sevier County High School team, an activity that perhaps foreshadowed his University of Tennessee endeavor.

On a wintry January day, Elder received word that a kidney match had been found. Later, University Medical Center's transplant team, led by Dr. Mitchell H. Goldman, M.D., transplanted the kidney of a Colorado woman into the 18-year-old high school senior.

Although it can sometimes take days for transplanted organs to begin working, Elder's new kidney began functioning immediately, and likewise, Elder's health took a prompt upswing.

"I didn't know how bad I felt until I felt good again," Elder recalled. "My skin color quickly changed from a sickly yellow to a healthy color. I was up walking the next day — sore — but already feeling better," he said, smiling.

"It doesn't seem like I'm working any harder or going at a faster pace, but my body's just not constantly telling me to slow down," said Elder, who in addition to

Upon his arrival in 1985, Athletics Director Doug Dickey began the process of updating the facilities associated with the University of Tennessee Athletic Department. In an effort to fund scholarships and a facility improvement program, the Volunteer Athletic Scholarship Fund was formed in February 1986.

In 1986, annual donations totaled $700,000 from about 2100 members. Under the direction of Associate Athletic Director Mitch Barnhart, and the effort of Volunteers in the annual fund drive and loyal response from Vol fans, the VASF has grown to 7000 members and in excess of $4.3 million annually.

The challenge is still ahead of us. More than 250 scholarship athletes depend upon the Volunteer Athletic Scholarship Fund to help make the opportunity of a degree from the University of Tennessee a reality. Not only do the funds support student-athlete scholarships, they also support the Neyland-Thompson Sports Center, Gibbs Hall dormitory and Lindsey Nelson Stadium, currently under construction. The Vols continue to claim one of the finest all-sports programs in the country, but without the continued support of the VASF donors, none of this would be possible.

A great thanks goes to those people who support the VASF through their generosity and hard work. To get involved in the annual VASF fund drive as a volunteer or to make a donation, call (615) 974-1218.

We hope you will join us in making possible a quality experience for student-athletes at the University of Tennessee, while at the same time, help make memories that will last a lifetime.

70th Winning Season Of 1st Quality Goodness

Lay's

SEVENTY YEARS OF QUALITY
1921-1991

For 70 years, folks in Tennessee and across the South have enjoyed the 1st Quality Goodness of Lay's 3-Little Pigs delicious team of meats. All carefully prepared with that special Mmm Mmm Magic shared from generation to generation while providing convenient, nutritious varieties for every lifestyle and occasion.

Guaranteed wholesome goodness is the Lay's reputation known and loved throughout the South. That's why all the folks at Lay Packing Company say, "Thanks Volunteers" for making the 3-Little Pigs a part of your life.

his studies and role as Smokey, also finds time to volunteer for the National Kidney Foundation where he speaks to high school students about kidney disease and organ donation.

Elder, a senior advertising major, will soon begin his second season as the award-winning mascot for the Lady Vols. His first stint resulted in Smokey receiving the Most Spirited, Best All-Around and, of no surprise to Volunteer fans, the All-American Mascot award at a national cheer-leading camp.

While the challenge of entertaining fans of the nationally-ranked Lady Vols appeals to him, Elder also enjoys cultivating the next generation of Vol fans. "The best part of playing Smokey is seeing the children's reactions to my routines.

Seeing the excited faces of these little fans is terrific," he said.

Elder's health care "success story" is one example of how the University Medical Center's three-fold mission of patient care, education and research translates into a better quality of life for many individuals.

Talk About Organ Donation Now

Jon Elder's story is just one of thousands that detail the improved lives of those who undergo organ transplants. Today's transplant patients are often able to return to work, marry, have families, and live active, productive lives. Yet, for every Jon Elder, there are hundreds of Tennesseans on waiting lists. Hundreds more need donated tissues such as corneas, bone, muscles and other various organs.

Experience and new drugs that prevent organs from being rejected are credited with good success rates for recipients. The University of Tennessee Medical Center at Knoxville's kidney transplantation program has a 93 percent survival rate, rating it among the nation's top programs according to UNOS, the United Network for Organ Sharing.

The success of University Medical Center's program, however, depends upon the compassion and foresight of others who must decide to donate before a life-ending tragedy occurs.

What you should know:

- Many organs and tissues are suitable for donation. A single donor can help 50 or more people. You can donate any or all organs and tissues by indicating your choice on an organ donor card.

- If you are injured and have a signed organ donor card, your physician's primary responsibility is to help you. Organ donation is only indicated when there is no hope.

- Medical need, geographical proximity to the donor, blood and tissue compatibility and other objective information determines who receives organs and tissues.

- Organs are removed under strict surgical conditions. This does not interfere with funeral and burial arrangements.

- Donation is supported by all major religions.

- Donation can provide comfort to surviving family members because a part of their loved one still lives on, helping others.

How to donate:

- Sign and carry your donor card.

- Talk it over with your family.

- Cards are available from all Tennessee driver's license testing centers, local hospitals and donor agencies in your area. For more information, call the UT Transplant Office, The University of Tennessee Medical Center at Knoxville, (615) 544-9236.

Alabama Crimson Tide

Founded in 1831 in Tuscaloosa, the University of Alabama is the state's first university, opening just 12 years after Alabama gained statehood.

The University is well-known for its glorious landmarks. Denny Chimes, built in 1929 and refurbished in 1986, ring out the hour with 25 hand cast bronze bells. The beautiful antebellum President's Mansion, which underwent a major renovation in 1991, and the Gorgas House are located nearby on the main Quadrangle, which is the hub of the 250-acre campus.

The University of Alabama is a comprehensive, residential university, housing its academic programs in 17 colleges, divisions and schools, with more than 120 academic departments and more than 270 accredited undergraduate and graduate degree programs. UA is home to one of the most comprehensive Japanese studies program in the South; one of the nation's five oldest engineering colleges, founded in 1837; and the country's sixth largest communication college.

The University's more than 850 faculty members receive national awards for teaching excellence, research and service every year. With 23 endowed chairs and professorships in fields ranging from creative writing to aquatic biology to banking, UA attracts internationally known scholars to campus.

UA's 19,400 students hail from every state in the nation and some 67 foreign countries.

ONE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA'S MOST RECOGNIZABLE LANDMARKS, THE DENNY CHIMES RING OUT THE HOUR WITH 25 HAND CAST BRONZE BELLS.

GENE STALLINGS Head Coach

As Alabama celebrates its 100th year of football, Gene Stallings is celebrating his third year with the Crimson Tide.

Stallings, who was an assistant coach under 'Bama legend Paul "Bear" Bryant (1958-64), was named Alabama's head coach in January of 1990, leading the Tide to a 7-5 mark despite a three-game losing streak which opened the season.

Stallings' second season proved to be much more 'Bama-like as the Tide finished 11-1. This season the Tide has continued its roll, entering today's game undefeated at 5-0.

Stallings initial contact with Bryant came while at Texas A&M where Stallings was an All-Southwest Conference selection under Bryant. Following his playing days, he became a graduate assistant before moving with Bryant to Alabama.

After his stint as the Tide's assistant coach, Stallings earned his first head coaching job with his alma mater Texas A&M where he coached from 1965-71. He then moved to an assistant post with the NFL's Dallas Cowboys, serving for fourteen seasons and through a Super Bowl triumph (1978).

In 1986, Stallings was named the St. Louis Cardinals' head coach, a position he held for three seasons until taking over his current post with the Tide.

There is a deeper significance in the quiet of the Allegro Bay Pusher motor home than mere solace to your ears. Such quiet is a reflection of standards so precise as to be almost incredible.

What does this quiet mean in comfort, in motoring pleasure? Take an Allegro Bay Pusher out on the road and unleash the 190 horses in the Cummins 6 BTA after cooled engine. You've got more power than you've probably ever felt before. Yet you drive with a perfect sense of security. For there's no roar to rattle your nerves and you're able to converse in normal tones while traveling in total relaxation. At Tiffin Motor Homes, Inc., we feel that The Pusher will become one of the most firmly grounded traditions in motor home traveling. The Allegro Bay Pusher is a motor home you will love and take pride in. Estimated 10-12 mpg.

Allegro Bay offers other fine front-engine gasoline models available on the Chevrolet and Ford chassis.

The University of Tennessee's proud football tradition is well represented in the storied National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. Thirteen former Vols and one coach, Gen. Robert R. Neyland, represent the Big Orange in college football's shrine honoring its greatest players. Tennessee's 14 honorees represent the most of any Southeastern Conference member. Beginning with Gene McEver's induction in 1954, Tennessee greats have been given college football's highest honor quite frequently.

Vol fans may view displays of Tennessee Hall of Fame members in the Neyland-Thompson Complex's Hall of Fame display. The display immortalizes former Vol players and coaches, as well as great games and championship teams. The facility, opened in February 1990, features video touch-screen terminals, photographs and various kinds of memorabilia from the first century of Tennessee football.

Tennessee Traditions

Mascot

The official mascot is Smokey, a rather pleasant blue tick coon hound that has been on the job since 1953. The dog is a native breed of Tennessee and a line of dog used for hunting raccoons. The present Smokey is the sixth in line of such canines provided by the late Rev. W.C. Brooks of Knoxville for the post and is appropriately called Smokey VII. Smokey was chosen as a result of the 1953 Pep Club contest to select a mascot.

Nickname

The University of Tennessee, as the state's land grant university, draws the nickname of its athletic teams (Volunteers) from the name most associated with the state. Tennessee acquired its name "The Volunteer State" in the early days of the 19th century when Gen. Andrew Jackson mustered large armies from his home state to fight the Indians and later the British at the Battle of New Orleans.

The name became even more prominent in the Mexican War when Gov. Aaron V. Brown issued a call of 2,800 men to battle Santa Ana and some 30,000 volunteered. The dragon uniform worn by Tennessee regulars during that conflict is still seen adorning the color guard at UT athletic events.

The name "Volunteers" is frequently shortened to "Vols" in describing Tennessee athletic teams.

Running Through the "T"

From the time of coach Bob Neyland through the 1963 season, the Vols had their team bench on the east side of the field, close to their dressing room which entered the field on the 50-yard line.

When Doug Dickey became Tennessee's coach in 1964, he changed all that. He moved his team bench to the west side, allowing the Vols to enter through a giant "T" formed by the "Pride of the Southland" Marching Band.

When the Vols moved to the new dressing room quarters under the north stands in 1983, the "T" remained, forming from the north to south instead of east to west.

The "T" has occasionally been formed on the road, most notably at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium in Memphis, at Vanderbilt Stadium in Nashville, and at the 1986 and 1991 Sugar Bowls in New Orleans.

School Colors

The colors Orange and White were selected by Charles Moore, a member of the first football team in 1891, and were later approved by a vote of the student body. The colors were those of the common American daisy which grew in profusion on The Hill. Tennessee players did not appear in the now-famous Orange jerseys until the season-opening game in 1922. Coach M.B. Banks' Vols won that game over Emory and Henry by a score of 50-0.

The Hill

Since the 1800s, The Hill has been a symbol of higher education in Tennessee. The University, founded as Blount College in 1794 in a lone two-story house, had its beginnings on The Hill and quickly grew around it.

The main part of UT's old campus stands on this rising bank above the north shore of the Tennessee River. Neyland Stadium sprawls at the base of The Hill, between it and the river.

Years of constant expansion and development have pushed the campus west of The Hill. Ayres Hall, which holds a commanding view over the campus and housed the College of Liberal Arts, still provides the most dynamic and recognizable scenes on campus. Today, The Hill is the center of activity for the natural sciences, mathematics, computer science and engineering.

Are Your Best Players Looking for an Option?

A smart captain knows the value of allowing teammates to follow their own judgement. It's that kind of trust and respect that transforms good players into a great team.

As an employer in the Knoxville/Oak Ridge area, you have the opportunity to give the freedom of choice to your workers. The kind of choice that will make them better team players in the long run.

Membership in the ORNL Federal Credit Union is open to any employee group...whatever the size or payroll. Offering benefits like checking accounts with interest, higher payback on savings, lower rates on loans and mortgages, access to Money Belt automatic teller machines, QUE telephone services and more...ORNL Federal Credit Union packs a powerful incentive to break away from traditional banking.

Give your employees the freedom to follow their judgement.

The self-respect and winning attitude that follow will be the best points you'll score all year.

The SEC's Leading Ball Carrier.

For the first time ever, Jefferson-Pilot Sports will be bringing you Southeastern Conference Football over the SEC Football Television Network.

This means that if you can't make it to the stadium to see the game, JP Sports will offer complete and comprehensive television coverage of thirteen important SEC matchups.

JP Sports is one of the premier producers, syndicators and marketers of collegiate sports in the country. Our lineup also includes SEC Basketball, as well as other regional conference sports in the southeast.

Just clip this schedule and check your local listings for the station carrying the games you want to watch. Then, sit back, relax, and let JP Sports take the ball and run with it.

1992 SEC Championship Game December 5, 1992 Birmingham's Legion Field

The first Southeastern Conference football championship game will pit the league's division champions Dec. 5 before a sellout crowd at Birmingham's Legion Field and a national ABC Television Audience.

The Championship game, the first of its kind in any major college conference, will determine the SEC champion and the league's representative in the Sugar Bowl.

The game will also mark the debut of a tie-breaking system in Division IA football. An extra period shall consist of two series with both teams each putting the ball in play at their opponent's 25-yard line. Each team retains the ball until it scores or fails to make a first down. The team scoring the greater number of points during the regulation and extra period will be declared the winner.

Southeastern Conference Divisional Format

Divisional format consists of playing eight conference games with each school playing each team in its division plus two permanent non-division opponents and one additional conference game on a rotation system. The divisional champions will meet to determine the Conference champion. The following is a listing of divisions with permanent non-division opponents in parenthesis.

Western Division

ALABAMA (Tennessee, Vanderbilt)
ARKANSAS (South Carolina, Tennessee)
AUBURN (Florida, Georgia)
LSU (Florida, Georgia)
MISSISSIPPI (Georgia, Vanderbilt)

Licensing

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE LICENSING PROGRAM

The University began its licensing program in 1982 to protect the use of its name and insignias and to insure that the public properly identify and associate University logos on products bearing the institution's marks. The licensing program is further designed to establish a cooperative relationship with licensees to assist in the development of a market for "Officially Licensed Products of the University of Tennessee."

Since its inception in 1982, the program has been very successful. The University has received cooperation from manufacturers, retailers and consumers in setting and maintaining high standards. The University has joined a consortium of other prestigious universities throughout the country to bring about consistency in the marketplace for officially licensed collegiate products.

Collegiate Concepts, Inc./International Collegiate Enterprises (CCI/ICE), known as The Collegiate Licensing Company, administers the programs for over 115 universities, seven postseason bowl games and one athletic conference, the Southeastern Conference. The objectives of the consortium are to assure that the names and logos of universities are protected, that the universities receive their fair share of revenues generated, and that alumni, students and supporters can easily recognize authorized merchandise.

LOOK FOR THE LABEL

How does one tell if the merchandise seen in stores or on the street is authorized by the University? It's easy — just look for the label.

The "Officially Licensed Collegiate Products" label should appear on all licensed merchandise. With the label, the alumnus, student and fan know that they are buying a product of quality and authenticity that represents the goodwill of the University. It is our way of identifying merchandise that has been approved by the University.

THE LABEL TELLS YOU IT IS AUTHORIZED

Unfortunately, there is still some merchandise being sold that is not authorized by the University. That is where we would appreciate your assistance. Look for the official label before you buy. It is your assurance that the merchandise that you receive has been authorized and approved by the University.

We are launching an awareness campaign toward our alumni, students and supporters telling them how to make sure that they are getting officially licensed merchandise. The sale of unlicensed merchandise (1) takes revenues away from the university, (2) increases the likelihood of inferior quality and offensive artwork, and (3) increases the risk of product liability problems. We appreciate and need your continued support.

FOR THE 25TH STRAIGHT SEASON, JOHN WARD (LEFT) AND BILL ANDERSON WILL BE BRINGING UT FOOTBALL TO LIFE FOR THOUSANDS OF VOL FANS.

Ward/Anderson Celebrate Silver Anniversary Season

Coaches and players come and go, but the one constant for Volunteer fans the last 25 years has been the "Voice of the Vols," John Ward, and his analyst, Bill Anderson.

For the 25th consecutive year, fans can hear their colorful description on more than 90 stations across Tennessee, but they're never too busy to sign an autograph. Fans will have the opportunity to meet John and Bill and have them sign autographs from the site of the Vol Network's "Kickoff Call-In Show." The program, which begins 90 minutes before kickoff, takes place just outside the north entrance to Neyland Stadium.

"VolCalls" Set For Season No. 4

The Vol Network's prime time talk show, "VolCalls," resumes its weekly time slot two weeks before the season opener. The hour-long program devoted exclusively to the Big Orange sports scene can be heard from Bristol to Memphis each Monday night at 8 p.m. EST with hosts Bob Kesling, Mike Keith and Randy Smith.

Tennessee Television

For the second straight season, "The Johnny Majors Show" can be seen not only in Tennessee but also across most of the Southeast via the SportSouth cable network.

Vol fans throughout a 10-state area will have access to this popular 60-minute program featuring Coach Majors and John Ward analyzing the key plays and reflecting on the game the day before.

Bob Kesling returns to provide entertaining features on members of the Vols while former UT great Condredge Holloway has exclusive postgame interviews with UT players and coaches.

Producer Barry Rice oversees a seasoned production staff that sifts through plays and interviews before the show is produced and transmitted live on Sunday morning.

(The Vol Network and UTV Network are part of Host Communications.)

RIP THIS OUT AND FEED IT TO YOUR FAMILY.

Who says that there's nothing good in the newspaper these days?

Here's a recipe for a beef dinner that's different, tasty, and incredibly easy for you to make.

MEXICAN BEEF STIR FRY - 25 MINUTES

1 lb beef flank steak	1 red or green bell pepper, cut into thin strips
2 Tbsp vegetable oil	1 med onion, cut into thin wedges
1 tsp each ground cumin and dried oregano leaves	1 to 2 jalapeño peppers, thinly sliced
1 clove garlic, crushed	3 c thinly sliced lettuce

Cut beef steak into 1/2-inch thick strips. Combine oil, cumin, oregano and garlic; reserve half. Heat half the seasoned oil in large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add bell pepper, onion and jalapeño pepper; stir-fry 2 to 3 min or until crisp-tender. Remove and reserve. In same skillet stir-fry beef strips (1/2 at a time) in remaining oil 1 to 2 min. Return vegetables to skillet and heat through. Serve beef mixture over lettuce. 4 servings.

No doubt your family will like it so much it'll make up for the hole you just tore in the paper.

Neyland Stadium

The present day Neyland Stadium, Shields-Watkins Field had its beginning in 1919. Col W.S. Shields, president of Knoxville's City National Bank and a UT trustee, provided the initial capital to prepare and equip an athletic field. Thus, when the field was completed in March of 1921, it was called Shields-Watkins Field in honor of the donor and his wife, Alice Watkins-Shields.

The stadium, apart from the field it grew to enclose, came to bear its own distinguished name — Neyland Stadium. It was named for the man most responsible for the growth and development of Tennessee football — Gen. Robert R. Neyland, who served as head coach from 1926 to 1952, with two interruptions for military service.

After retiring from the coaching ranks, Neyland was athletic director until his death in 1962. He was the guiding force behind additions to the stadium's capacity and is the one most responsible for the winning tradition that Volunteer fans have come to expect over the years.

The latest addition to the facility is the Neyland Stadium Press Box and Executive Suites, officially opened Sept. 5, 1987. Located atop the West Upper Deck at Neyland Stadium, it replaces one built in 1962.

Capacity: 91,902 — Largest football stadium in the South, third largest college stadium in the country. Has undergone 13 additions/renovations since West stands were built in 1921, seating 3,200. Latest additions (North stands) added 10,499 seats in 1980. Press Box/Executive Suites renovated in 1987.

First game: Sept. 24, 1921 — Tennessee 27, Emory & Henry 0.

Dedication game as Neyland Stadium: Oct. 20, 1962 — Alabama 27, Tennessee 7.

First game on artificial turf: Sept. 14, 1968 — Tennessee 17, Georgia 17.

First night game at Neyland Stadium: Sept. 16, 1972 — Tennessee 28, Penn State 21.

Attendance: Since attendance records were first kept beginning in the 1950 season, more than 16 million fans have watched Big Orange football in Neyland Stadium. An average of 62,386 fans have attended 264 games in 42 years.

Tennessee success at Shields-Watkins Field: In 70 seasons, the Vols are 332-83-17 at home, a winning percentage of .788.

Consecutive home games without a loss: 55, beginning Sept. 25, 1926, with a 13-0 victory over Carson-Newman and ending Oct. 21, 1933, with a 12-6 loss to Alabama.

Consecutive home wins: 30, beginning Dec. 8, 1928, with a 13-12 win over Florida and ending Oct. 21, 1933, with a 12-6 loss to Alabama.

Consecutive home losses: 4, beginning Nov. 13, 1954, with a 14-0 loss to Florida and ending Oct. 8, 1955, with a 13-0 win over Chattanooga; beginning Sept. 10, 1988, with a 31-26 loss to Duke and ending with a 10-7 win over Boston College Nov. 5, 1988.

Winning seasons: Tennessee has had 61 winning seasons in 70 years at Shields-Watkins Field, including 30 undefeated years at home. The last team to go undefeated at home was the 1991 squad, which was 6-0-0 at Neyland Stadium.

WITH A CURRENT SEATING CAPACITY OF 91,902, NEYLAND STADIUM RANKS AS THE NATION'S THIRD LARGEST COLLEGIATE STADIUM.

TELEPHONES

Telephones are located at intervals along the concourse in the West, South and East stands and upper decks.

FIRST AID STATIONS

In case of a medical emergency during today's game, the University of Tennessee and the American Red Cross have established three first-aid stations in Neyland Stadium. The stations are staffed with medical doctors, nurses and other qualified personnel. Trained first-aid teams are located throughout the stadium, ready to administer immediate care.

If you need medical assistance, notify the team nearest you. If you are unable to locate a team, find a law enforcement officer or usher and he will direct you. This is a service provided by the University of Tennessee and the American Red Cross, a United Way agency.

RESTROOMS

Restroom facilities are located under the concourse in the West, South and North stands. Upper deck restrooms are located in the concourse. Ushers will direct you to the closest facility.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost articles may be turned in at the Concession Office, located behind Section R. Such items will then be turned over to the University of Tennessee Security Office, 1115 UT Drive, where they may be called for on Monday following each game (974-3114).

ROCKY TOP

Wish that I was on ol' ROCKY TOP down in the Tennessee hills;
Ain't no smoggy smoke on ROCKY TOP;
Ain't no telephone bills;
Once I had a girl on ROCKY TOP;
Half bear, other half cat;
Wild as a mink, but sweet as soda pop,
I still dream about that.

CHORUS

ROCKY TOP, you'll always be home
sweet home to me;
Good ol' ROCKY TOP — ROCKY TOP
Tennessee

Once two strangers climbed ol' ROCKY TOP looking for a moonshine still;
Strangers ain't come down from ROCKY TOP;

Reckon they never will.
Corn won't grow at all on ROCKY TOP;
Dirt's too rocky by far;
That's why all the folks on ROCKY TOP get their corn from a jar.

ALMA MATER

On a hallowed hill in Tennessee
Like a beacon shining bright
The stately walls of old U.T.
Rise glorious to the sight.
REFRAIN

So here's to you, old Tennessee
Our Alma Mater true

We pledge to love and harmony
Our loyalty to you.
What torches kindled at that flame
Have passed from hand to hand
What hearts cemented in that name
Bind land to stranger land.

O, ever as we strive to rise
On life's unresting stream
Dear Alma Mater, may our eyes
Be lifted to that gleam.

HERE'S TO OLD TENNESSEE

(Down the Field)

Here's to old Tennessee
Never we'll sever
We pledge our loyalty
Forever and ever
Backing our football team
Faltering never Cheer and fight with all of your might
For Tennessee.

FIGHT, VOLS, FIGHT!

Fight, Vols fight with all your might,
For the Orange and White
Never falter, never yield
As we march on down the field
(Keep Marching!)

Let the Spirit of the Hill
Every Vol with courage fill
Your loyalty means our victory
So fight, Vols, fight!

Value from John Deere...a new line of three high-performance utility tractors

Efficient power

Reliable 3-cylinder John Deere engines feature a high-ring piston design for improved fuel efficiency and performance.

Smooth operation

Smooth shifting, collar shift transmission features 9 forward and 3 reverse gears with an in-line shuttle shift between forward and reverse. Optional creeper package lets you maintain speeds as low as 0.2 mph at rated engine rpm.

Easy servicing

Tilt-up hood and removable side panels make day-to-day servicing fast and easy. Rugged construction keeps maintenance to a minimum.

Solid comfort

The operator's station with console-mounted controls and deluxe suspension seat provide extra comfort. Unique design places you lower and farther forward for more room, improved visibility and better access to controls.

Standard equipment

Includes 540 rpm PTO, self-adjusting hydraulic wet-disk brakes, hydrostatic power steering, foldable ROPS, much more.

Three models available

Choose from the 5200 (40-hp), the 5300 (50-hp) and the turbocharged 5400 (60-hp). John Deere 5000 Series Spirit Tractors are built tough in Augusta, Georgia...but they're available now at your Tennessee John Deere dealers.

THE COLLEGE ALL-STARS.

Team up with the Army Reserve to earn as much as $38,000 for college.

That includes more than $13,000 in pay during a standard enlistment . . . another $5,040 if you qualify for the Montgomery GI Bill . . . plus repayment of a qualified student loan up to $20,000 if you train in certain specialties.

And that's all for only part-time service—usually one weekend a month plus two weeks' Annual Training.

Be on our team in college. It could help you become an all-pro in your career field.

Think about it. Then think about us. Then call.

HERE FOR YOU.

There's nothing better to top off a great gridiron battle than a fabulous meal in congenial surroundings. That description applies almost exclusively to any of the delightful Stokely Hospitality Enterprises restaurants nestled in the Smokies, just a pleasant drive away from Knoxville. Whether you choose to dine in Pigeon Forge or Gatlinburg, you're absolutely sure of three things: gracious service, generous portions, and very affordable prices!

Comfortable Elegance and the Famous Bountiful Breakfast

At the Burning Bush, you can dine overlooking the national park in our new expanded glass dining room. Indulge in our famous Bountiful Breakfast, served until 2 p.m., or one of our tempting house specialties for lunch and dinner. Enjoy the splendor of polished wood, pewter, and candlelight. Shop at the Branch of the Bush Gift Shop, specializing in items from LeConte Lodge, the "Bush," Appplewood Farmhouse, and the Pioneer Inn.

Located on the Parkway at the entrance to the national park. 615/436-4069.

Casual Dining for Every Taste

Upscale and downtown describes the new Brass Lantern. Enjoy cocktails in Brassy's Pub or enjoy something special from our expanded brunch menu. Make dinner a feast with Prime Rib or Rib Eye, served with our famous Vegetable Soup. Close with one of our Devastating Desserts.

Halfway from everything, midtown on Parkway, Gatlinburg. 615/436-4168.

Bring A Pioneer Appetite and Taste The Tradition

Overlook the Little Pigeon River tumbling down fresh from Mt. LeConte as you enjoy the Pioneer Inn's down-to-earth, generous meals. With our "fresh as the river" motto, Trout tastes as if it were panfried beside the stream, our Biscuits are steamy hot, our Apple Pie flakes under your fork, and our Prime Rib — unbeatable! Serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

On the river entering Gatlinburg. 615/436-7592.

Discover Country Charm And Simple Splendor In An Apple Valley

Surrounded by rows and rows of apple trees, Appplewood Farmhouse Restaurant is quaint and lovely and modestly priced. Taste refined country cooking touched with the "magic of apples." Each meal begins with our delicious homemade Apple Fritters, so good, people take them home in sacks. And be sure to try our special Southern Fried Chicken, the best in the Smokies. Open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Located on picturesque Apple Valley Road off U.S. 441 in Sevierville. 615/428-1222.

One Trucking Company Gets All A's.

At our company we make better than just passing grades. Thanks largely to our Quality Improvement Process, which includes a full time team of instructors, AAA Cooper has a near perfect delivery record: 99.7% of our shipments are delivered error-free.

Another area in which we receive high marks is speed. Our customers can not only place a pickup order quickly—usually in twenty seconds—they also receive an order quickly, thanks to our fully computerized system. Our grade in this area: 96.2% of our shipments arrive on time.

And one other area in which we score high is safety. Our twenty five hundred people, 900 tractors and 1,900 trailers carefully serve over 8,000

Southeast cities...a fact that's proudly evidenced by the three first place safety awards we've won in recent years. If you'd like to know more about this company that's at the head of its class, just give us a call at 1-800-633-7571.
